Latest revision as of 20:25, 26 September 2008 This book sheds light on basic JW doctrine and practice. It offers some helpful tips for engaging JWs. But is subpar when arguing for the two natures of Christ and the deity of Christ. In addition, the book's bad translation of 1 Peter 2:24 allows a JW who rejects Christ's substitutionary atonement to justify their viewpoint. (I.e., a JW can believe that Jesus was definitely and permanently sinless and a perfect man, but still deny that Christ died for everyone's sin and died in our place.) The book also teaches that non-JWs are "blind," which is a JW teaching. Finally, the book is too close to the Watchtower Society and therefore can be thought of as "the Society's idea of a dialogue." Reasons for Reasoning from the Scriptures with the Jehovah's Witnesses Adrian McNally, founder and president of RRJ-Writers, has published several articles on the Jehovah's Witnesses, and is co-author with his wife, Georgiana, of "Sight for Sore Eyes, Salvation, an Explanation of Fundamental Teachings in the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society." Russell Graham is a freelance writer and researcher who served as Religious Affairs Intern with the Watchtower Society and Research Director for the Bible Institute of Greater New York. He is author of several books on Jehovah's Witnesses, including "Messages from the Watchtower," "The Three Witnesses" and "Witnessing." He is also co-author with his wife, Claudia, of "Celebrating the Bible" and "Celebrating the Bible, Reflections from the Heart." James Walker is a writer based in the UK, which has earned him the nickname of "the world's leading witness for Jehovah's Witnesses." He is author of "Beware of Deceit: Why Jehovah's Witnesses Don't Watch TV" and editor of an acclaimed DVD anthology, "Jehovah's Witnesses in Focus: A More Comprehensive Study than the Watchtower Society's Vivid Truth Books." Philip Adams is a former minister who was active in the Jehovah's Witnesses as a baptized minister from 1950 to 1993. He is currently a Research Director with the Bible Institute of Greater New York and author of "An Insider's Account of Jehovah's Witnesses."

THE JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES: AN EXPOSURE â€” By Andrew Haldane.Introduction: Coaching is one of the most effective tools in sport for skills development but is used widely in physical medicine and rehabilitation as well. To date, the majority of coaching programs in the literature focus on the application of mobile coaching apps as a tool to coach skill development in sport. Studies have shown an increase in technique accuracy and muscle activation among novice sport participants after the use of mobile coaching apps. An important question for coaches in sport is how can we ensure that participants in the physical rehabilitation setting are similarly as safe and successful in achieving their goals through coaching? Aims & Methods: The aims were to evaluate the effectiveness of mobile coaching apps in coaching skill development in sport for novice sport participants in the inpatient rehabilitation setting and to quantify the training dosage for future mobile coaching apps in the physical medicine and rehabilitation setting. Retrospective cohort study. Medical record reviews were conducted on 90 participants (mean age 37.6 years, SD 16.9 years, 63% male) who participated in
